

Business Enterprise

From sole proprietorships to large international corporations, today's leading business entities require an experienced law firm that possesses a nuanced understanding of business challenges and that is capable of aligning legal outcomes with targeted business strategies.

At Schuyler, Roche & Crisham, we excel in striking the right balance between business acumen and jurisprudence, providing our clients with world-class legal representation and the expert management of business transactions. A number of our attorneys have worked in in-house law departments, giving them true insight into the partnering relationship required to deliver the best legal services.

Whether we are representing clients in the Chicago area or in locations across the nation and around the world, our Business Enterprise attorneys serve as general business counsel, handling all legal aspects of financial and business matters, and helping our clients effectively navigate the myriad challenges associated with business success.

Practice areas in the Business Enterprise group include:

- Transactions & Enterprise Formation
- Corporate Taxation
- International Transactions
