

Mackrell International

Schuyler, Roche & Crisham is proud to be a member of Mackrell International, an exclusive global network of more than 70 independent, midsize, full-service law firms with offices in 110 major markets worldwide. As a member of this highly selective group of law firms, each of which has earned distinction in its respective headquarter region, Schuyler, Roche & Crisham is able to provide its clients with access to outstanding legal representation around the world.

What makes London-based Mackrell International unique among legal networks, in addition to the rigorous selection process, is its foundation of strong, long-standing professional and personal relationships between members. As a result, Schuyler, Roche & Crisham clients can be assured they will receive prompt, reliable, senior-level representation from other Mackrell firms.

In other words, Schuyler, Roche & Crisham clients have the best of both worlds—the personalized attention of a leading midsize, full-service firm and the depth and breadth of an experienced global practice.
