

Regulatory

The attorneys in Schuyler Roche & Crisham's regulatory practice advise clients on regulatory and compliance issues arising domestically and internationally. The firm's clients include insurers, reinsurers, insurance agents and brokers, as well as reinsurance intermediaries, alternative risk insurance groups and third party administrators.

The firm's regulatory attorneys have extensive experience in representing companies in responding to investigations by, and complaints filed with, state insurance departments and other regulatory agencies, as well as handling internal compliance reviews, review of reinsurance and other insurance-related contracts, insurer and adjuster licensing and rate and form filings. The firm's expertise includes addressing compliance issues raised by the use of social media in the insurance industry. The firm's attorneys also have an unparalleled depth of experience in product development and policy and endorsement drafting for both commercial and personal lines products.
